RUSSIANS ADVANCING IN THE EAST

CEAR'S ARMY TAKES 108,000 PRISONERS
FROM AUSTRIA.

GERMANS STRIKE VERDUN ATTACK OF TEUTONS
SWINGS TO EAST OF MEUSE.

The German attack on Verdun has again swung to the east of the Meuse following the assaults of Saturday night on the French positions near Hill 204 west of the river. Last night German infantry charged French positions west of Fort Vaux, but the French war office reports, was unable to gain ground. At the same time the French positions near Fort Souville and Tavanmes, south of Fort Vaux, were bombarded heavily. Paris looks for a severe struggle for possession of Fort Souville, to which the bombardment may be preliminary. Should the Germans capture the fort they would open a breach in the French defenses which might compel the French to abandon this entire line and fall back on the inner defenses on the right bank of the river. West of the Meuse the only development of the night was a heavy artillery action in the vicinity of Chateaufort.

The spectacular Russian advance in Galicia and Volhynia apparently has not been checked, although few details of this campaign are permitted to come to light. Vienna connects the withdrawal of Austrian troops in northeastern Bukovina, where the advance of the Russians has brought them within 13 miles of the capital, Czernowitz.

The sinking of two more neutral merchantmen is reported. The Swedish steamship Emmy has been destroyed by a mine off Falsterbo, with the loss of five men. The Norwegian steamer Bur also has been sunk, whether by a mine or torpedo, is unknown. Fifteen men from the Bur have been landed at Ymuden, Holland.

PETROGRAD, June 12, via London.—Russian troops yesterday approached the outskirts of Czernowitz, the capital of Bukovina, the war office announced today.

LONDON, June 12.—A Reuter dispatch from Malmö, Sweden, says that the Swedish steamer Emmy has been destroyed by a mine off Falsterbo. The dispatch says that one of the crew was killed by the explosion and four others were drowned.

BERLIN, June 12.—(By wireless to Sayville.)—The Dutch steamship Retinet from Amsterdam, from the Dutch East Indies, is said by the Overseas News Agency to have been compelled to leave her mails in England.

RUSS TAKE 108,000 PRISONERS.
Enormous Quantities of Supplies Captured in the East.

LONDON, June 12.—The bewildering total of 108,000 Austrian prisoners (nearly four army corps) taken by the Russians in seven days open fighting in the Volhynian and Galician fronts officially is reported from Petrograd.

This is the largest capture of prisoners in the field of battle to be reported since the war began. The closest approach to it was Von Hindenburg's crush of the Russians in the Mazurian lakes fighting in February, 1915, when he made 100,000 captives.

In addition to the prisoners an enormous amount of supplies have been captured. The Russian war office withholds the figures on deaths, but a despatch to the Daily Telegraph says:

"In some parts of the battle line the Austrians were driven back in such precipitate disorder that they were compelled to abandon large numbers of wounded men."

"Thousands of prisoners were rounded up by the cavalry, which has got into the Austrian lines of communications. Whole regiments are said to have surrendered en masse."

"The number of slain probably reached very large proportions, in consequence of the thoroughness of the Russian artillery preparations."

Some sections of trench are said to have been transformed into a mass of crumbled concrete, burst sandbags, splintered beams, mixed with mutilated corpses and fragments of flesh. At such points not

HUGHES JUMPS FROM THE BENCH INTO POLITICS

Announced Purpose is to Find Out About "Arrangements".

NEW YORK, June 12.—The first organized political move in the furtherance of the campaign for the election of Charles E. Hughes was announced today upon the arrival of the republican candidate here from Washington. It was the revival of the Hughes Alliance, an organization of Hughes republicans, democrats and independent voters who came into existence during the second campaign of Mr. Hughes for governor of New York in 1908. The announcement was made by Travis H. Whitney, public service commissioner, one of the first to meet Mr. Hughes on his arrival on the morning train.

Mr. Whitney accompanied the presidential candidate to the Hotel Astor, where Mr. Hughes established his headquarters. He said that the same men who were identified with the Hughes Alliance had decided to get together to work in New York state for the election of the candidate probably under the name of the Hughes Non-Partisan league. The organization he said would establish headquarters here and co-operate with the regular republican organization. He added that his organization planned to provide Mr. Hughes with personal headquarters for his visits to New York.

"I have nothing to say on politics at this time," said Mr. Hughes, greeting newspaper men who met him on the ferry-boat which brought him over the Hudson. This was in response to a question as to whether he would see Colonel Roosevelt during his stay here.

"I have come here primarily to make my plans for the summer," continued the presidential candidate. "New York, by way, is where I belong and I am glad to get back here."

Mr. Hughes admitted there were certain "important matters to discuss" but efforts by the newspaper men to learn at this time what his specific plans were proved futile. His presence on the train that brought him from Washington was unknown to all but a few of his fellow passengers. When he left the train, he attracted no attention but aboard the ferry was recognized by commuters to the city from their Jersey homes. They made no demonstration, however.

Mr. Hughes received newspaper men during the forenoon but declined to discuss his plans. He was asked how it felt to "be drafted for the biggest job in the world."

"I can only say," he replied,

OHIO PYTHIANS IN GRAND LODGE MEET

Knights and Sisters Open Sessions at Cleveland
Today.

CLEVELAND, O., June 12.—The 47th annual session of the Grand Lodge of Ohio Knights of Pythias, and the annual meeting of the Grand Temple of the Pythian Sisters will open their annual conventions here tonight. The knights will hold a special session of the Grand Lodge this evening, and the Pythian Sisters will hold a reception at the same time.

A pre-convention religious service attended by delegates was held in Epworth Memorial Methodist church yesterday afternoon. Besides Rev. Dr. M. H. Lichter, pastor of the church, Grand Chief Mrs. Lillian Howard of the Sisterhood, and Grand Chancellor William Schugardt spoke at yesterday's services.

The delegates will attend dedication ceremonies of the Pythian Sisters' Home at Medina, this afternoon.

Tonight the Grand Lodge will confer the Grand Lodge rank of past chancellor on 350 candidates. About 1,000 knights and 400 sisters, exclusive of the Cleveland members, are attending the conventions, which will last three days.

Candidate and Mrs. Hughes.

This photograph of Justice Charles E. Hughes, republican candidate for president, was taken just as he and Mrs. Hughes left the National Cathedral school in Washington, where the justice presented the honor graduates with an American flag. It was this speech which many progressives in Chicago commented on as being insignificant answer to their demands in connection with preparedness.

ADVANCE GUARD OF OHIO FIREMEN IN LIMA FOR MEET

Thursday is Big Day That Will Attract Thousands of Visitors.

Five Thousand Fire Fighters
Will be Here This Week.

With the arrival of the advance guard of the three firemen's organizations that are to attend the convention in Lima this week, Fire Chief Mack was busy this morning welcoming the early visitors and arranging to make their visit to Lima one not to be forgotten. It is predicted that more than 200 will register in Lima today.

Some of the early arrivals who visited headquarters today were: Fire Chief Thomas J. Gough of Cincinnati, Ohio; Chief T. W. Morgan of Painesville; William H. Murphy of the American La France Fire Engine company, Elmira, New York; Chas. Berst, representative of the Gamewell Fire Alarm Telegraph company, and T. W. Parry, chief of the fire department of the B. F. Goodrich Rubber plant, Akron.

One of the big features of the convention will be the parade on Thursday. It has been named Volunteers' Day and all of the volunteer forces established in factories of the city will head the procession.

If the predictions of the different organizations are true, about 5,000 visitors will be entertained during the session, from June 12 to 16. The three organizations taking part in the convention are: Ohio Fire Chiefs' association, the Ohio Firemen's Protective association, and the Lake Erie Volunteer association.

Local Committee.
A committee composed of Chief John Mack, Lieutenant F. A. Curtis, Captain W. B. Wilcox, Captain John Gagin and H. L. Taffinger, and with power to appoint assistants, has been appointed to meet all incoming delegations and to bring delegates to the Chamber of Commerce for registration and assignment to hotels and to furnish escort to meeting places. A badge committee composed of W. H. Clarke, S. M. Williams and R. A. Gramm will issue badges from the secretary's office at the Chamber of Commerce, where application must be made.

SOCIAL PLEASURES WILL FEATURE CONVENTION OF DEMOCRATS AT ST. LOUIS

ST. LOUIS, Mo., June 12.—Detailed plans for the entertainment of delegates and visitors at the democratic national convention here this week have been formulated. Under auspices of the general entertainment committee, in connection with the Business Men's League, delegates and alternates will be taken on an automobile ride on the first day, June 14.

Another afternoon the visitors will attend the ball game. From the ball park they will be taken on a river excursion, either on the steamer Grey Eagle or St. Paul. A buffet dinner will be served on the boat.

The Kentucky Society will treat its guests to an automobile ride and a dinner at an inn about 12 miles from the city. Other state clubs have established headquarters, and applications for hotel room and so forth will be taken care of as well as possible. Most of the hotel space already has been taken, but the state organizations, especially the college and university contingent, are booking rooms in all places possible, even in private homes.

ST. LOUIS CONVENTION WILL OPEN WEDNESDAY WITH PLATFORM READY

Strong Planks Drafted for Submission When Glynn Completes Keynote.

FINAL PLANS ANNOUNCED

Credentials Committee Faces Few Contests
---Ticket Will Be Nominated Friday Evening, Says McCombs.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., June 12.—Preliminary to the opening of the democratic national convention the members of the national committee are here today to meet and pass upon the final arrangements for the convention whose 1932 delegates are to name the party ticket. The committee also had before it five contests three of which involve the seats of the national committeemen from the District of Columbia, Hawaii and Texas. Another contest involves the seat of a delegate from Hawaii and the fifth contest embraces a protest against the seating of the six delegates from the District of Columbia.

"We expect a short session of the committee," said Chairman McCombs. "The convention arrangements are all perfected and the contests before the committee should be speedily settled. We have made a change in our convention program. The first session will be held Wednesday when the temporary chairman will make the keynote speech and the committees will be appointed. The next day the convention will hear the speech of the permanent chairman and addresses of prominent democrats."

"On Friday there will be a morning session when the platform will be read and adopted and on Friday night we will name the ticket." National Chairman McCombs held a conference with Senator William J. Jones who will be the chairman of the resolution committee. Senator Stone brought with him from Washington certain drafts or more important planks that have been sketched in some detail by President Wilson and his advisers in congress and the cabinet.

Planks Proposed.
The principal planks that await presentation to the platform committee are the foreign relations, the Mexican situation, preparedness and tariff. The foreign relations plank will set forth the unprecedented conditions that have arisen as a result of the war and will be pointed out that while President Wilson has kept us from strife he has also maintained a neutrality both "strict and honest."

The plank on the Mexican situation will develop that this question has been approached with the idea of keeping peace not only with the Mexican republic but to maintain peace within her own borders.

On the question of preparedness the platform will assert that the part has met the demands of the world-wide situation by an advanced stage of preparedness of the navy and the enlargement of the army and the re-organization of the national guard.

The tariff plank will point out that the reduction of tariff duties so that the income from that source in normal times would meet the needs of the government is an achievement of the democratic party.

The national committeemen are awaiting an intimation from President Wilson as to whom he would prefer as the chairman of the committee to succeed Mr. McCombs who has announced his retirement. It is learned that word has been sent to President Wilson asking him to suggest the name of a chairman who would be agreeable to him, that the new committee may act upon the suggestion immediately after the final session of the convention. Committeemen here say that if President Wilson's choice lies within the committee membership it probably will be Vice Chairman Homer Cummings of Connecticut. Mr. Cummings said that he was not a candidate for the office but if called upon would serve.

Contest from Texas.
A smart contest was anticipated before the committee today over who should be seated as national committeeman from Texas. Thomas Love, formerly from Missouri, has protested against the seating of William Polndexter. There is trouble from far-off Hawaii. A protest has been made against the seating of one of Hawaii's six delegates and W. P. Jarrett has contested the re-election of J. H. Wilson as national committeeman. Four presidents of democratic clubs have entered a protest against the seating of National Committeemen John F. Costell and the six delegates to the convention from the District of Columbia.

Early trains brought scores of delegates and visitors to St. Louis today and National Chairman McCombs said there was every indication that large crowds would attend the convention. "This is a remarkable tribute to President Wilson and the party," said Mr. McCombs, "when one considers that the convention lacks the alluring feature of an exciting contest over the head of the ticket."

Hall All Ready.
The convention hall is rapidly taking form and the national committee says it will be ready in ample time. St. Louis hung out bunting and flags in profusion today and decorations appeared everywhere in honor of the convention.

Mrs. Florence Updegraff, the suffragist leader of New York believes that the "Golden Lane" in which several thousand women, dressed in white with yellow sashes and carrying yellow parasols will stand in silence on both sides of the main street through which the delegates will pass on their way to the convention is going to be an effective argument for suffrage.

This silent plea of the "Golden Lane" Mrs. Updegraff says is to be in direct contrast with the women's campaign at other conventions where oratory was relied on to make up their points.

DEMOCRATS AT ST. LOUIS.
Tammany Hall Train Leaves New York With Five Hundred.

WASHINGTON, June 12.—Democratic leaders today were departing for the party convention at St. Louis with President Wilson's final suggestions on work of the assembly. The president also planned to leave Washington for West Point where he will deliver an address to graduates of the Military Academy tomorrow, returning immediately.

Secretary Baker on his departure for St. Louis today was one of the president's personal representatives. Indications were that Homer Cummings, Connecticut national committeeman, was the most likely choice of Mr. Wilson as chairman of the democratic national committee. Mr. Cummings now is vice chairman.

Chances that the Mexican situation would change between now and the election makes the platform declaration dealing with that subject difficult to draw, but it is believed emphasis will be laid principally on the president's policy of slight interference with internal Mexican affairs.

Strenuous efforts are to be made by party leaders to smooth out differences of opinion within the party and to present a united front in the campaign it is said.

BUGHES JUMPS FROM THE BENCH INTO POLITICS

There are certain circumstances under which a matter of duty is supremely clear and which leaves no ground for hesitancy in this case. There was no question in this situation as to what I should do. I did it and in my announcement to the people I endeavored to make my attitude clear.

"I came here to hold consultations regarding arrangements for the future. I can say nothing in respect to the details at this time."

Mr. Hughes then posed smilingly for moving picture and camera men.

There was a procession of local republicans to visit him and Mr. Hughes spent the forenoon in receiving them. Shortly before 11 o'clock George W. Wickham appeared and was immediately ushered to Mr. Hughes' room where he went into conference with the candidate.

Mr. Wickham declined to state the object of his visit or to discuss rumors that he was acting as a mediator in plans to obtain progressive support for the republican candidate. He reiterated his denial that he had been in consultation lately with Colonel Roosevelt.

W. C. T. U. Conducts Flower Mission Services Sunday Afternoon.

As a reward of merit because he neither drinks, smokes nor chews tobacco, Howard Stewart, 70 years of age, inmate of the Allen county infirmary, was given a Bible by the Women's Christian Temperance union, which yesterday held Flower Mission day at the infirmary. A woman, 102 years old, who is an inmate of the infirmary, was one of the interested participants in the exercises yesterday.

Nearly 400 men and women attended the service. Commissioners James L. Heath, Frank Wright and Walter W. Craig were present for the exercises. Mrs. Bertha Dickason, superintendent of Flower day in the county union, presided at the meeting.

The program was given from the big porch, facing the west. Chairs for those who listened or took part were placed in the green grass in the yard below. Blue skies and the fairest of days, greeted the efforts of white ribbon women in their work.

Glasses of jelly and sweets, small packs of candy, magazines, tied with verses of scripture, and beautiful bouquets of flowers, containing the same cheerful messages, were left for those of the county home to enjoy. The service is an annual feature of the month of June.

Mrs. W. E. Spayde of Lima, read the Scripture lesson from the 144th Psalm. Mrs. D. R. Cook, president of Lima union, offered prayer. Mrs. Augusta Steiner of Bluffton, president of the county union, spoke on "Why We Observe Flower Mission Day". She told of the happy memories left with county charges by these little acts.

The Rev. O. E. Knepp of the First United Brethren church of Lima, gave an address. Mrs. George Michael extended greetings from West Cairo union and Mrs. J. W. Maxwell the greetings from Lafayette union. Mrs. James Wright favored with a reading, instead of Devona Welker. Mrs. J. F. Krieff of Delphos, gave a vocal number.

from were made public on the ground that the work of the American consuls would be handicapped. Officials made no attempt to conceal their anxiety over the situation which apparently is crystallizing in the northern Mexican states. Many dispatches bearing on the subject have been received during the last 48 hours. All were read immediately upon receipt by Secretary Lansing and the more important were sent to the White House.

Equally disquieting reports are reaching the department of justice from its agents along the border and in the interior of Mexico. They were turned over to the state department.

OHIO DISTRICTS REMAIN INTACT

MARION, O., June 12.—The vanguard of Ohio Civil war veterans, Sons and Daughters of Veterans and associate orders, to attend the Golden Jubilee State Encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic, was received by a gala bedecked city today. The encampment will open tomorrow, and will continue for four days.

Old soldiers from Cleveland, Cincinnati, Toledo, Dayton, Youngstown, Columbus, Akron, Canton, Zanesville and other cities are expected to arrive in bodies today. The entertainment committee has taken the precaution to prevent exorbitant charges for service.

'MORE DAYLIGHT' IS ROTARY QUESTION

Eastern Standard Time as State-Wide Rule is Favored.

At the regular noon-day luncheon of the Rotary club today, the discussion of "More Daylight" was the feature. The meeting was in charge of F. E. Baxter, chairman of the "Worth While" committee.

The committee had sent out cards to the members of rotary asking that they take a canvas of people with whom they come in contact and a poll of the results showed the question to stand about even for and against. To many the matter of advancing the clock one hour, to afford more daylight for recreation, as is in practice at Cleveland and Detroit, made no difference.

The discussion by a few developed a sentiment in favor of adopting eastern Standard time as a state-wide proposition, thereby eliminating any of the objections that may arise through the confusion to those residing outside of Lima.

L. H. Kibby, formerly cashier of the Old National Bank, of this city, and now a resident of Oakland, California, was a guest of the club. Mr. Kibby is a member of the Oakland Rotary club, and expressed pleasure to again meet his old friends in Lima.

Other guests were R. C. Eastman, R. O. Bigley, Melvin C. Light, W. L. McClain, Frank Hoyer, P. R. Hoagland, W. M. Giesey and C. H. Kirkland and Mr. Langaner, of Chicago.

a defender was left who had enough life to offer any resistance.

The military opinion here is that there is practically no possibility of making good these casualties. The Austrians have no strategic reserves left and can only re-enforce their lines from the Italian front.

For the first time it is learned tonight that three great Russian armies are now pressing back and gathering in the Austro-Germans on the 200-mile battle line from the Pripiet marshes to the Roumanian frontier.

Soldiers are Separated.

One army has torn a huge rent between the Austrian and German forces where their flanks join south of the Pripiet river.

The second has swung victoriously through the Volhynian quadrilateral of forts (Lutsk, Olyka, Rovno and Dubno), captured Buczacz on the Strypa, and is now sweeping on Lemberg the capital of Galicia.

The third army is marching southward on Czarnowitz, the capital of Bukovina.

That principal activity in yesterday's fighting was by this army, which overwhelmed the Austro-Hungarians and took 18,000 prisoners in a single action.

The Austrians claim a victory on the Styr, but acknowledged a withdrawal of forces in Bukovina.

SHAW FORMERLY IN T. R. CABINET COMMENDS WILSON

Declares Republicans Responsible For Any Lack of Preparedness.

Sentiment is Found to be Heartily in Favor of President.

By J. C. Hemphill.

WASHINGTON, June 12.—Leslie M. Shaw was secretary of the treasury under Mr. Roosevelt. He made a very remarkable speech at Indianapolis recently in which he expressed grave doubt as to whether or not the republican party could defeat, even if it should try, or whether it ought in fact to try to defeat, the party now in power in view of the notable record it has made in the last four years.

He stated frankly that the democrats had really done in four years more than the republicans had done in 40 years. "If we have a small and inadequate army and navy," said Mr. Shaw, "the republican party is 80 per cent responsible for its inefficiency, for the republican party has been in power 80 per cent of the last century. If our coast defenses are silly, I submit it does not lie in the mouth of the republican party to say much about it."

That seems to cover the political situation fairly well from an honest republican point of view and the case might very well go to the jury upon this plain statement of facts. Upon the facts, not the misrepresentations of self-interested campaign subscribers, the people will judge at the polls in November. There is absolutely not one honest argument that can be made in favor of the restoration of the republican party to power. The evidence is conclusive of democratic efficiency and republican failure—less than four years of efficient democracy against 40 years of republican incapacity! Take the record all over the country and compare it with the record made by the republicans in business, in commerce, in industry and the balance is all in favor of the democratic administration. Naturally, the party in power has caused very serious distress to certain interests entrenched in power but that was precisely what the administration was elected to do, not to destroy any legitimate industry but to place the rich and the poor on exactly the same footing before the law, to destroy the machinery by which the very few have grown fat upon the very many and to bring about that happy time when all the people will be placed upon the same level.

The Wilson administration has been a constructive administration. The president was not elected to destroy but to save, and he has performed his whole duty. Without his masterly leadership, his uncompromising devotion to a great cause—the popular opportunity in popular government—his party could not now appeal to the country for its approval of the work that has been done, and done so well that while the rest of the world is involved in the sorest distress the human race has ever known, the United States was never so prosperous as it is today.

With the banks fairly bulging with money, the mills and factories running over time to fill their orders, with labor never so well paid as it is today and peace within all our borders, with labor and capital working together hand in hand, with bread for all the hungry and with the fields never yielding so abundant harvests, the voters might well ask why they should be expected through their ballots to swap the man who brought about the present happy condition in this country for any amateur in statecraft or any "experienced" administration who has only his discredited work to commend him to their favor.

Day after day the reports from all parts of the country encourage the belief that Woodrow Wilson will be retained in the service of his people. There is, in fact, no charge of incompetency that can be made against him. He cannot be charged with any partisan treatment of the great questions with which he has dealt. He has saved the United

VICE-ADMIRAL SIR DAVID BEATTY, COMMANDER OF THE CRUISER SQUAD, WHICH FIRST CAME INTO BATTLE WITH THE GERMANS IN THE NORTH SEA, WAS ON THE BATTLE CRUISER LION, WHICH WAS NOT INJURED IN THE FIGHT. ADMIRAL HORACE HOOD, COMMANDER OF THE BATTLE CRUISER INVINCIBLE, WHICH WAS SUNK, IS BELIEVED TO HAVE LOST HIS LIFE. HE WAS ONCE NAVAL ATTACHE WITH THE BRITISH EMBASSY IN WASHINGTON. BOTH MEN MARRIED AMERICAN WOMEN. THE DEFENCE, OF WHICH ADMIRAL SIR ROBERT K. ARBUTHNOT WAS THE COMMANDER, WENT DOWN. THE ADMIRAL OF THE GRAND FLEET, SIR JOHN JELlicoe, ON THE IRON DUKE, WAS NOT IN THE BEGINNING OF THE BATTLE, BUT THE MAIN FLEET HURRIED UP AND WAS IN ON THE CHASE OF THE GERMANS TO PORT. REAR-ADMIRAL HIPPER WAS SECOND IN COMMAND OF THE GERMAN FLEET.

Vice-Admiral Sir David Beatty, commander of the cruiser squad, which first came into battle with the Germans in the North sea, was on the battle cruiser Lion, which was not injured in the fight. Admiral Horace Hood, commander of the battle cruiser Invincible, which was sunk, is believed to have lost his life. He was once naval attache with the British embassy in Washington. Both men married American women. The Defence, of which Admiral Sir Robert K. Arbuthnot was the commander, went down. The admiral of the grand fleet, Sir John Jellicoe, on the Iron Duke, was not in the beginning of the battle, but the main fleet hurried up and was in on the chase of the Germans to port. Rear-Admiral Hipper was second in command of the German fleet.

States from participation in the European war. The people praise him and trust him for his courage and patience and fair dealing in all of our foreign relations. Throughout the great western part of the United States his services for peace and humanity have increased his strength. Take the recent primary elections in the west and note the president's increasing popularity in that part of the United States. In Milwaukee county, Wisconsin, the president received at the late primary election very nearly as large a vote as the combined votes of La Follette and Phillip, republican candidates for delegates at large to the national convention. A careful observer of political conditions writes: "In the Scandinavian countries, which have always been rock-ribbed republican counties, President Wilson made tremendous gains as a rule over the combined Wilson-Clark vote in 1912."

In North Dakota, the president polled at the recent primary election "a larger percentage of the total vote cast at this election than has ever been received by any other candidate at any of the state-wide primaries held in the state."

Out in Minnesota, in the Duluth district from which Mr. Miller comes, the president received 678 votes more than the three republican candidates combined. Mr. Miller will be remembered as one of the severest critics of the president and his work and even he, according to recent reports, has reached the conclusion that Mr. Wilson has gained by leaps and bounds every day.

In Montana Mr. Wilson is exceedingly strong and it is generally believed that he will carry the state; and so the story grows every day. There is not an argument that can be made seriously against his retention in authority and the more the people think the less they will be disposed to take the chance with any of the candidates who have been nominated by the opposition to succeed this strong and self-reliant man who accomplished in the space of three years what the republican administration could not do in 40.

RICH WOMAN WILL AID GIRLS TO MARRY

Says True Love and Mate Only Foundation to Happiness.

A woman cannot be happy without a husband.

Conversely, though she be hungry, poorly clad and ill housed, if she be married and loves her mate, contentment and happiness are hers.

Because she believes this and is philanthropically inclined, Mrs. L. Brackett Bishop, who lives at the Chicago Beach hotel, will aid every girl who applies to remove the obstacle in the way of her happiness—lack of a mate.

"I will pay the cost of the license, the flowers and the minister's fee for every girl and man who want to marry," Mrs. Bishop announced yesterday. "Furthermore, I shall provide a church wedding for them."

"It is not my intention to open a matrimonial bureau. But I shall do everything in my power to help working girls find husbands and I shall pay the necessary expenses of their marriage."

This announcement was made at an eight-cent luncheon to working girls, given by Mrs. Bishop in the parlors of the Swedenborgian church, Woodlawn avenue and Forty-sixth street.

Mrs. Bishop has left her luxurious apartment at the Chicago Beach hotel and set out to live for one week "as working girls live." She promised to restrict her food cost to thirty-three cents a day.

"Since I announced that a woman could live on thirty-three cents' worth of food a day and started out to prove my theory scores of working girls have called me up on the telephone and scores of others have written me letters.

"All of them have been belligerent. They have told me it is impossible for a wealthy woman to put herself in the place of a working girl. Some of their messages have ridiculed me and called me names."

"I want to say now that their attitude is the fruit of misunderstanding. I do not believe that a working girl should lower her standard of living. But I do believe that the working girl and the woman in the palace spend too much on material things."

"If you could see into the hearts of women, you would learn that what they want more than anything on earth is a home, a little tin dishpan and some one to love. What every woman wants and needs most is a husband.

George, 5, was taking a walk with his papa. It was warm, and his underwear was scratching him. He stopped and began to scratch himself. As he did so he said to his papa: "Do you know I have fleas?" "Well," said his papa, "what makes you think that?" This is what he replied: "When dogs scratch themselves people say they have fleas, and ain't I scratching?"—Exchange.

A CITY ONCE TOO LOYAL.

Bristol has always been a loyal city and once displayed its loyalty to its own eminent disadvantage. When Henry VII. paid the city a visit in 1490 the citizens turned out in such style to welcome him that the miserly monarch, casting an eye upon the money displayed, promptly levied an impost of 120 on each inhabitant "because their wives went too fine".—London Chronicle.

WILSON AND HUGHES

The Republican party has seen fit to nominate as Mr. Wilson's opponent for the November election a man who differs less from the president than from any man in the nation. While they have vilified the present administration for "weakness" in dealing with Germany and with Great Britain, they have named a man who would follow the same course with each, as well as with Mexico—the former justice is the same type as the president and displays the same mental characteristics.

When the Democratic party meets in St. Louis Wednesday it meets with a record of four years of achievement. It will point to performances instead of offering promises. With the federal reserve and currency measures, a successful tariff law, an increased army ordered, preserved peace and unexpected prosperity, the party will be able to point to something done.

The Republican platform offers no substitutes for the "mistakes" of policy charged against the Wilson administration. It throws mud, but stops there. Now with Mr. Wilson launching and drafting measures for preparedness and rural credits and similar reforms, the Democrats will present a platform worthy of the title. Where, therefore, can the Republicans find campaign material sufficiently convincing to induce the voters to turn out a man who has done something for one who has not been tried? Where can they find proof that the "Republican Wilson with whiskers" will do otherwise if elected than has been done by the present tenant of the White House? The G. O. P. adherents clamor for a change; yet offer a man who is almost certain to refuse to adopt a foreign policy different from that of the present executive.

What issue now remains save that of patronage? A vote for Hughes is a vote to endorse the Wilson policy and order its continuation by a Republican. A vote for Hughes is a vote to replace a tried executive with an untried one. It is a vote to "swap horses in the middle of a stream". But the most important factor is this: A vote for Hughes is a vote for nothing more than a new set of job holders. We do not believe that the United States will risk an unskilled pilot for the tiller of the ship of state merely for the purpose of installing new postmasters, revenue collectors, department clerks and customs officers.

T. R. DECLINES

If the authenticity of the report were not so well attested by reliable agencies the refusal of Theodore Roosevelt to run as a Bull Moose presidential candidate would appear incredible. Never before did the doughty colonel refuse anything of that nature.

There must be a reason for it. Perhaps he saw, after eight years of delusion, the handwriting on the wall—no third-termers will ever preside in the national executive department. "What Washington wouldn't take, what Grant couldn't get, Roosevelt oughtn't to have".

But there is another reason more potent and the chances are far more influential in the decision of the former president. Perkins has withdrawn his cheque-book as a source of income. For four years he has been the provider for the Progressive party. But he was susceptible to commercialism, apparently, for Saturday morning he attempted to "sell out" the Moose party to the Republicans. The latter declined the goldbrick so gracefully proffered. Deserted by the guardian angel from Wall Street, bereft of the snows of war, the one-man party had only one fate to meet—ignoble death from malnutrition.

Teddy must have seen this. If he were as well informed by private wire as his agents announced he must have known that the ship was scuttled. He could not have but been aware that Perkins was tired of sinking his money in a losing issue. And rather than start a campaign without funds he declined.

The end of the Bull Moose party is a pathetic spectacle, especially in view of the hold start at Chicago in 1912. "Three months old and in second place" is no mean boast for any new party. But it shows the futility of trying to make a party out of the inordinate personal ambition of one man. We hope that the Great Defender will take the stump and support the Republican nominee. That would drive thousands of voters to the Wilson standard—the failure of T. R. as a judge of presidential timber was tragically displayed during the Taft administration.

COLLEGES AND THE PRESIDENCY

Since the day of Grant only two men have held the presidency who were not college graduates. Cleveland and McKinley were not college-trained men, although unconfirmed tradition has it that the latter was for a short time in Princeton. Grant was a West Pointer and Hayes a Kenyon graduate of the class of '42. Garfield was a Williams product and Arthur a Union alumnus. Harrison, like Hayes, received a diploma from an Ohio institution, his alma mater being Miami, class of '53. Harvard, Yale and Princeton gave us Roosevelt, Taft and Wilson.

And the Republicans have nominated Charles Evans Hughes, a son of Brown and of Columbia law school.

What does this signify? Is the United States coming to a point where the college man is the only man to be entrusted with a post of responsibility? It is an ever-increasing phenomenon in business and professional circles this respect for the baccalaureate degree. More and more the young man seeking employment in an office finds he is asked: "What college did you attend?" Surely the collegiate world may regard this as a tribute of final recognition of worth.

One thing is significant. Glance at the above list. West Point is not co-educational. Kenyon is not co-educational. Miami was not co-educational in Harrison's day. Williams keeps the girls and the studies separated. So do Brown and Union. Harvard has its Radcliffe, but Princeton has no place for the fair "trails". Yale is hardly the place to seek for co-eds. Evidently the co-educational system has no endorsement in the roster of national executives.

And it is noticeable that most of the above institutions are small.

What will William Randolph Hearst do now? Hughes defeated him for the governorship and the owner of a dozen saffron-hued papers referred to him as "an animated feather-duster". Hearst also hates Wilson for refusing to sacrifice unprepared American boys to annex the Chihuahua ranch of 1,100,000 acres. Willie may have to run again himself.

The man who picked the G. O. P. delegates to avoid a Roosevelt stampede did a complete job of it. Most of them were Taft delegates, alternates, electors or committeemen of 1912. The question is, who picked 'em?

Nominee Hughes mustn't be expected to mention the fact that as governor he urged the New York legislature to vote against the income tax amendment to the federal constitution.

Teddy should have known an omen when he "found" it. The nut-eating bird had whiskers just like Hughes.

GOOD EVENING: Fortunately there's no contest at St. Louis.

NEW NOTES MOVIELAND

Marion and Madeline Fairbanks.

The difficulty in telling these twins apart may be imagined when it is realized that in height, weight, color of hair and eyes and even to complexions and mannerisms, they are as one.

NOW that they have passed their fifteenth year, the "Thanhouse Twins"—Marion and Madeline Fairbanks—have modestly requested that in forthcoming releases they are desirous of having their names appear in the cast, though not for the purpose of differentiation, having long ago given up hope of ever having people tell them apart.

"We have been known so long as the 'twins' in screen productions," said Marion, speaking for her sister as well as herself, "that now that we have passed our fifteenth birthday we think it best that we be known as Marion and Madeline. It looks much more important, we think, to be listed by our individual names than it does merely as the 'Fairbanks Twins'."

Telling these two young ladies apart has long been a difficult matter at the Thanhouse studios. On one occasion, during the staging of a feature, Director Sullivan, perturbed at his inability to pick the right one, hit upon the happy idea of fastening a ribbon to their arms. Marion was assigned a blue one and Madeline a red one. Thereafter, little difficulty, so far as identification was concerned, was encountered. The same scheme has been resorted to frequently in the staging of releases in which both young ladies appeared.

There is always something new in filmdom. Florence Rose, formerly fashion editor of L'Art de la Mode, has been engaged by J. A. Berst of the Pathe company to conduct a fashion department—pictorial, of course. She will put out a special reel of fashions twice a month. Accompanying these films will be a series of articles written to be published simultaneously with the release of the pictures.

Clara Kimball Young, now in her own company, has already started work on a film play from the Robert W. Chamber novel, "The Common Law".

The Lubin Co. has started to film the Rex Beach novel, "The Barrier", planning to make it a successor to "The Ne'er Do Well".

TRAVELETTE

BY NIKSAH.

BATTLE CREEK.

Battle Creek is known to fame as the capital of breakfast-food, the home of a dozen pabulum which build up the gray matter and save the internal organs of humanity the labor of digestion. Battle Creek is a city that specializes. It is the ally of the human stomach. If you eat Battle Creek food you thrive; if you are numbered among the unregenerate and batten too long on fried pork, you can go to Battle Creek and let the experts straighten out your alimentary canal.

At least such is the prevailing impression of Battle Creek. It is something of a surprise to the visitor then, to alight at the station and find that the factories and invalids are not much in evidence. Battle Creek is a pretty town. The adjective just describes its attraction. It is hardly imposing enough to be called beautiful, but it is well-kept and dainty and decorative. The lamp-posts on the streets are adorned with flower-boxes full of growing plants. There are two rivers winding and wandering about the city, cutting it up into plots of picturesque and irregular shapes and sizes. There is a little lake where you can indulge in maritime sports and pastimes.

Battle Creek is not a large place. You will probably be surprised to find it with only twenty-five thousand inhabitants. There are a dozen towns in the country twice as big that nobody has ever heard of. Battle Creek is another example of the potency of advertising. Her name appears in the newspapers and magazines more often than that of Caruso or Thomas A. Edison.

The natives of Battle Creek seem to enjoy life. They are apparently collectors of automobiles. The town is so full of cars that the pedestrians feel like explaining that his own is only in the garage with a sprained carburetor—as the man who has pawned his watch tells you he is having it regulated when you ask him what time it is. Most of the Battle Creek people own their houses. It is said, and they are pretty houses, too. The sole defect of the native is a tendency to regard the visitor with an eye of cold suspicion. This is disturbing at first, but after a while some resident will explain. "Most of the strangers come here to be cured," he says. "You never can tell whether the unfamiliar face belongs to a neurasthenic or a hypochondriac or only a man with fits."

INDIANS LET BUTTERFLY LARVAE DO WORK FOR 'EM

Travelers among the Sioux Indians are very much impressed with the perfect smoothness of the bore in their pipes. Without a use of a tool of any kind, they make a perfect bore in the twigs of ash trees which they use for musical instruments and for pipes.

To accomplish this end, they employ the larvae of a butterfly which inhabits the ash tree. The Indians remove the pith for about three inches from each twig which they wish bored. Into this cavity they place one of the larvae of a brown butterfly, which gnawally eats its way down through the pith until the bore is completed.

A little heat applied to the wood expedites the work of the larvae. The Indians consider both the tube made in this way and the larvae as sacred as their idols. Popular Science Monthly.

HEALTHHINTS

AIR IS MOST VITAL
NEED OF THE BODY

It is comparatively easy to go without food for several days and less easy but possible to go without water for a considerable length of time. But fresh air the human system must have or else death occurs within a short time.

By fresh air is meant air that is not used up, that has not been breathed over and over again.

The food we eat three times a day can be changed into strength and body building material only through combination with the oxygen of the air.

When the supply of fresh air runs too low poisonous substances begin to develop within our bodies. Nothing "Just as Good."

And there is nothing that is "just as good" as fresh air. Unless workshops, schoolrooms, living and sleeping rooms receive a continuous and plentiful supply of fresh air such places endanger the health of the occupants.

Persons employed in factories, shops and stores should take a few minutes of their spare time daily to practice "deep breathing." This is best done on the way to work in the morning and again while going home in the evening.

Instead of taking the street car from work to front doorstep, walk a few blocks at either end and use that time for deep breathing.

Need Lots of Water. With deep breathing combine the habit of drinking plenty of water during the day. Most people drink too little water. Plenty of water is needed to dilute the blood stream constantly circulating through the tissues, if the millions of cells, of which these tissues are composed, are to do their work.

At the least a person should drink six glasses of water every day, one upon arising in the morning, one shortly before each meal, and one or two at night before retiring.

The Dredging

A RAILWAY POWDER PLANT.

A process has been devised by the use of which gunpowder and other high explosives can be manufactured aboard a railway train in motion. The machinery includes devices for performing all the essential operations of powder making, from the first compound where the elements are mixed, through press, a cutting wheel, a hot air drying apparatus, to a glazing cylinder for giving the grains their final polish. If the whole proves as practical as the inventor believes it will, its effect will be to render powder plants less liable to destruction in time of war than is the case at present. It will also be possible to manufacture explosives in the very train that is carrying them to the front.

UNCLE SAM AIDS FISHERMEN WITH LATE METHODS

Uses All-Steel Cars to Distribute Live Fish Over U. S.

WILL SUPPLY PONDS
Farmers Urged to Construct Fisheries of Their Own.

Frederick J. Haskin.
WASHINGTON, D. C., June 12.—The United States bureau of fisheries is now having constructed a large all-steel car, which is to be the most perfect vehicle for the rapid distribution of live fish that it is possible to build. For years the bureau has been shipping fry and fingerlings all over the United States by means of half-a-dozen old wooden cars. This new steel vehicle which is 60 feet long and will carry some 17 tons, will be a great addition to its facilities for distribution. This increased carrying capacity will almost certainly be taxed by a new undertaking of the fish commissioners. By means of the bulletins which the bureau publishes, and every other avenue of publicity open to them, they have been urging American farmers and small town and country dwellers generally, to take up the cultivation of fish on their own premises. To any individual who is able to show that he has a pond suitable for the propagation of fish, the government will furnish fry or fingerlings of the proper species.

The arguments in favor of private fish culture are unanswerable. In the first place it is not an expensive undertaking. On nearly every country place there is a bit of land which is not used for anything else, and to which water may be brought from some spring or stream. The excavation or dam-building in many cases will not cost more than $25 or $30. The pond may often be used for irrigation or for watering stock as well as for fish.

Even a small pond, with an area of no more than a quarter acre will produce more fish than one family can possibly use. In this way many an inland farm, where fish is now a rare delicacy, may be abundantly supplied with it. The rapid rise in the price of meats makes this an especially valuable addition to the food supply of any household.

The raising of fish on farms is an ancient industry which has not been neglected in any of the older countries. In Germany and Austria many of the small landowners raise fish, and many Austrian villages have municipal fish ponds. In the Philippines the industry has been carried on for a long time, especially on the lowlands about Manila Bay, where there are aquatic properties valued at $3,000,000.

Some of the state fish commissioners have been trying to encourage private fish culture for many years, and there are successful fish farmers scattered all over the United States.

A typical small producer is Mr. Samuel Bailey, of Kansas, who has a fish pond on top of a hill, where he supplies it with water by means of a wind mill. It has an area of only a quarter of an acre, and cost about $25 to dig, but it is abundantly stocked with bull pout (a small cat fish) and crappie, and will soon be yielding an abundant harvest of fish in addition to irrigating the family garden.

A larger enterprise is now being undertaken in Columbia county, New York, by a man who owns a piece of land upon which is a lake about two miles wide. This owner has gone in for commercial fish production on a large scale. He has placed the property in the hands of an expert, and a series of small ponds are being constructed along the lake shore for the propagation of bass and perch to be sold in the market.

An idea of how rapidly fish will reproduce may be gained from the experience of Carl H. Thompson, of Warren, Ind. He constructed a pond 120 feet long by 60 feet wide and 4 to 6 feet deep, in which he released four pair of small mouth black bass. Fifteen months later he took out 1017 bass which averaged a pound in weight, while in addition there were a number of yellow perch that had slipped in accidentally.

If you wish to obtain from the government, fish with which to stock a private pond, you will be required by the fish commissioner to give an exact description of the body of water which you propose to stock, including its depth, size, summer temperature, vegetation, and various other matters. The kind of fish which you can raise depends entirely upon these conditions. Generally speaking, the more desirable species require clearer and cold water, and many inland dwellers are unable to raise any of the game fish, such as bass or perch, because of the high temperatures, and lack of a cold water supply. Fish of a lower type, however, will survive and grow under almost any conditions. Thus carp can be raised in all parts of the country. The fish commissioners have recently been making a study of the buffalo fish, a denizen of the muddy western rivers belonging to the sucker family.

Although not a game fish, and not as delicately flavored as bass and perch, the buffalo will thrive almost anywhere, and he is very likely to become the most popular "farm fish" of America.

Few persons realize how much the fish supply of most of our inland waters depends upon artificial propagation. The shad that run up our Atlantic rivers and supply many of our largest cities with fish are of hatchery origin. Without federal aid the shad of the Potomac would have ceased to exist many years ago.

The game fish of many small streams are also dependent upon constant restocking, and especially is this true of the brook trout. Recently rainbow trout from California have been introduced into some of the Allegheny streams where the native trout had been exterminated, and they are now rapidly multiplying. Their presence has been reported in a number of small streams near Wytheville, Virginia.

Another experiment of this sort proved itself successful this year when a good-sized catch of humpback salmon was reported from the Penobscot river in Maine. The humpback salmon is a native of the Pacific coast, and was introduced into the Atlantic a few years ago.

The size and efficiency of the organization which thus keeps a nation supplied with fish and fishing is impressive. During the year 1915 the bureau produced over four billion fish and ova, and distributed some 58,000,000 fish of fingerling or larger size. Egg collecting and hatching operations were conducted in 32 states and Alaska, while the distribution extended into every state and territory. The greater part of the output is planted in public waters on advice of government or state experts, but most of the fish suitable for ponds and small lakes are consigned to individuals. This distribution of fish to individuals in all parts of the country last year re-

THE LATEST THING

"O H," she said, "it is perfectly beautiful. Quite the nicest I have ever seen, and it was dreadfully expensive."
 "What style is it?" I asked.
 "Well, it is walnut, with silver handles, and I don't know just exactly what style you call it, but it's the very latest thing."
 She had met a friend whose sister had recently married and was moving into her new home, and the above conversation occurred over a new dining room suite. Needless to say, I shuddered when I heard that her furniture was "the latest thing." Can you imagine anyone furnishing their home with things that were of the last word in the world of fads? I confess it was with reluctance that I called on the newly married young woman, but I was surprised, too, at her house. The furniture and pictures were beautiful, but nowhere could I find the atmosphere of a home. Everything was "the latest thing," and arranged according to a professional decorator's orders. Everything, however, was correct, but they had forgotten to make a home with it all.
 Alas, they would soon find the missing keynote, and then it would mean reconstruction. How glad I was to come back to the unpretentious place that was HOME, where things weren't the latest antiques, and the walls and the hangings and the furniture and every picture and lot of books meant comfort and most of all, home. The "latest thing" doesn't mean anything without association and a personal element behind it. Rather the monotony of the mid-Victorian period if it contains the element of home in it, than all the prizes of a decorator's art with nothing but cold beauty.

Life is thronged with commonplace, and the Master teaches me that commonplaces are the raw materials of greatness. Commonplaces are the first steps to sovereignty; nay, better than that, is our commonplace we find our thrones.

Furnishing Value of Beds.
 What is the first thing you see when you enter any guest room or any sleeping chamber in any house? The bed, of course. Its size naturally attracts the eye at once, and the manner of its dressing sets the keynote for the entire room. If it is also a comfortable looking bed that invites repose, the whole room takes from it a certain restful tone.

So, in furnishing the guest room, choose the bed carefully and let the other furniture be subordinate to it. If economy is a first consideration, says the New Orleans Times Picayune. Cheap beds become shaky and squeaky before many moons have passed, if of wood, furnace heat and extremes of heat and cold affect them very quickly. See that the bedstead is solid and stable, that the springs fit well, and are not so lightly constructed that they will soon sag in the middle, and that the mattress is a good one. Money is never wasted in a first-rate mattress. A single bed, or a three-quarter bed, which will be occupied by one person, may have a bolster instead of pillows, and this bolster may be "plumped up" to look round and full under the lace or cretonne bolster cover when the bed is made. A double bed should always have separate pillows and these may be hidden during the day under a paper lace bolster roll. See that the bed, when springs and mattress are adjusted, is neither too high nor too low. If the framework of the bedstead stands high on rather long legs, by all means add a valance of dotted muslin or dimity. This should be attached to a strong oblong of unbleached muslin, the exact size of the springs, and should be tacked to the spring so that the mattress may be turned without rumpling up the valance. The handsomer beds, style, have very long legs and low side pieces, so that a valance is unnecessary.

Do not make the mistake of putting a valance on a French bed, or a Louis XIV canopy on a colonial bed. Let the bed also express the period in furnishing represented by the rest of the room. An Adam dresser, Chippendale chairs and colonial bedstead, draped with a gaily little Tricason canopy, are all grouped in a very expensive guest room the scribe knows of. The colors in this room are exquisitely harmonized, the rugs and lace curtains represent a small fortune in themselves and to the uninitiated or uneducated eye perhaps the hedge-podge of furniture would not present any unpleasant effect, but a connoisseur could scarcely sleep in that room of clashing discords without being as restless as the prince in the fairy tale, who was forced to sleep with a dried pea rolling around under the sheet.

The colonial bed may not have a fringed silk canopy projecting from the wall at its head, but it may have a tester, supported by four slender bedposts and made of flowered chintz. The cane paneled beds of ivory enamel are so beautiful in themselves that they should not be hidden with canopies, draperies or valances. The handsome bedspread now is the plain-colored satin, unvelled with lace, cover and bolster cover of heavy satin, having a flounce attached with cording. Old gold is a favored color for the expensive furnished boudoir.

At the next meeting of the trustees of Cornell university, designated members of the faculty are to sit in council with the administrators and share in shaping the policy of the institution. This is no mere concession to a passing flurry in the academic world, says the Christian Science Monitor, but a deliberately planned and formally authorized step toward ending autocratic control of laymen over scholars, and of making Cornell more democratic as a seat of learning and character training. Recent developments at Bryn Mawr and the University of Pennsylvania, and the steadily growing activity of the association of university and college professors no doubt had something to do with this concession; but it is fair to say that President Schurman, as long ago as 1910, pleaded for the policy now ordained. He saw what was tending to make oligarchies, often of a plutocratic sort, out of what should be democracies.

Homemaking is the Dullest of Games, Thinks Ethel.

"H OW LONG did you say you have lived here?" asked Ethel Gordon, standing on her side of the hedge and talking to Nell Morton, who had brought her sewing out under a tree on the lawn.

"Nearly five years," answered Nell.

"How have you ever stood it so long?" Ethel's sigh indicated the length of time five years seemed to her.

"I did not like it at first, but Mrs. Parsons was so good to me that I soon grew better satisfied. Then my best friend from home came to visit me and fell in love with Dr. Ellison. When she came to be my nearest neighbor I was perfectly happy."

Nell smiled into the discontented face of her neighbor.

"But there is nothing to go to; nothing to do," complained Ethel.

"You see, I never had a maid until my boy was born, so I never suffered for lack of occupation," laughed Nell. "I often wondered how you put in your time."

"There isn't an earthly thing to do. I read till I am all tired out, and I hate walking. I hoped to have a machine, but that seems to be impossible." Ethel's pretty face wore the expression of habitual boredom that always spells lack of interests.

"What did you do in Milwaukee? Can't you transplant some of your interests here?" asked Nell with a real desire to help the discontented little woman.

"Oh, there! That was different. There was always something going on, some show or play. I belonged to a lively crowd that always kept something doing. We had canoe parties on the river, or picnics on the lake shore, or fine autoing parties that ended in a dance or supper."

Her voice broke and Nell looking up saw that her eye were full of tears.

"You poor little thing!" she exclaimed, going over to the hedge.

GERALDINE FARRAR! On the routine work, outlined for them as mathematically as the housewife plans her three meals a day.

When Geraldine Farrar emerged from the cocoon of her dressing room, she was still the gorgeous butterfly, but she winged her way to a beautiful home with her husband, Lou Tellegen, the famous French actor.

"I give to my art so much of that which is best within me, I am too tired for play," was her answer to a group of friends who urged her to accompany them to a cafe.

This winter we heard her wondrous song in many operas—again she thrilled us with the fiery passions of Carmen and broke our hearts with the love call of Madame Butterfly.

"Those silvery tones seem to murmur a mute benediction over my soul," a voice whispered ecstatically behind me on the stage. I wheeled around, blinking my eyes to see him through my tears. It was David Warfield.

Those who have never met actors or actresses at life's crossroads do not realize the glamor is often paid, the merry laugh a mask for tears and the board, mad song and dance spotlight.

"You—don't seem much interested in your home," began Nell haltingly. "I mean you leave everything for the maid to see to. I think you would find it very interesting if you studied home-making."

"Studied home-making!" echoed Ethel. "I do not understand."

"Why, I got so it was as exciting as a game, trying to see if I could keep my household expenses down to a certain sum. Really it is a great pleasure to make ends meet when they need a little stretching. Of course you have not the same need that I had, for my husband's salary was small when we first came here, but I thought—"

"Really I do not like your remedy. I think it worse than the disease," said Ethel in tones of disappointment. "I hate fussing over money matters, and how anybody can even think of that as a cure for home-sickness I cannot imagine. Thank you just the same for your interest," she added, for Nell looked hurt. "It is very kind of you to interest yourself in my woes."

Ethel threw a smile with no merriment in it over her shoulder as she turned toward the house.

---the Spirit of the Age: Co-operation
 Why You Should Never Again Bake Bread in the Home!
 "Let Us Do It"

The day of co-operative homes, where every family contributes to a general fund for running the big house has not yet arrived for Lima.

But the thousands upon thousands of housewives can receive as great a benefit, so far as BREAD is concerned—by using Stolzenbach's Famous Ever-ready

Butter-Nut Bread
 It is foolish to give up hours of your valuable time, strain your nerves and test your patience by laboriously mixing dough, watching the yeast raise and try to bake digestible bread in an oven which WILL NEVER give enough heat to kill yeast fermentation—become able to produce healthful bread.
 Butter-Nut is baked FOR YOU. The difference between great quantity, wholesale price of materials and the retail prices you would have to pay, enable us to MAKE YOUR BREAD FOR YOU, without charging you a penny for the service. Our perfect equipment reduces the cost of handling and guarantees the SAME HEALTHFUL, DIGESTIBLE loaf every baking. Surely the Stolzenbach Bakery is a great co-operative institution. Utilize it.

"Study the audience," he whispered. "It is living in tempo with the music and the song."

You cannot imagine how interesting it is to stand on the stage, peering through a tear in the walls of scenery and study an audience, especially at a crucial moment in the opera drama. Concentrated upon Geraldine Farrar were the thousands of eyes like tiny magnetic rays burning their way to the heart of her song.

Mute lips were forming notes, bodies were swaying, hands unconsciously went toward hearts, for, after all, we are all born actors and actresses save that some lack the power and confidence of expression.

Isn't it wonderful to think that the voice and personality of Geraldine Farrar will live forever? Long after the little span of years has run its course for all of us, and we step aside to make way for our children's children, behold! no one can steal from the victrola her song or destroy her image now she has ventured into the realm of the silent drama.

Critics and public have all declared Mrs. Farrar to be deserving of the highest praise; no one on the screen has ever given such a superb characterization as her Carmen. "I went into the moving picture theatre to see a mute singer," remarked the cynic, "but I remained to watch a great actress—a live thing in a puppet show."

Answers to Correspondents

Lulu F. A.—Have the stories and moving-picture synopsis typewritten. In the case of the former, submit them to the editor of a magazine which uses such stories; send the synopsis to the scenario editor of the reputable moving-picture companies. Always enclose stamps to cover the return of manuscripts. If they are not acceptable, they will be returned, often with specific criticisms. Study them, try to see where the flaw is and change them so they will be acceptable. Often where a writer's ability is small to begin with, careful study of his work and constant application and practice will develop a good writer.

M. W. H.—Probably the trouble with your skin comes from your blood. Why do you not go to your doctor and get his advice? Cold cream is always very cleansing, and you certainly need it if you are out of doors a great deal. If the young man loves you, it will not be necessary for you to try to win him—just wait.

M. E. C.—Thank you for your very nice letter. Carlyle Blackwell played opposite in "Such a Little Queen". The volcano in "Hearts Adrift" was merely a studio set.

Mrs. L. E. S.—Take the little girl to any of the reputable photograph companies, have her registered and leave her photograph. When they are in need of her type, they will send for her, but keep in close and constant touch with the studios.

Vero.—I regret that I cannot personally read scenarios sent to me, but if you have a well-written synopsis of your play typewritten and send it to the scenario editor of any reputable photograph company it will receive prompt and careful attention.

BETH ISRAEL HAS CONFIRMATION RITE

Six young people, little more than 10 and 12 years of age, took part in the beautiful services of confirmation at Beth Israel temple on West Market street yesterday afternoon, and with their parents, received their friends in the temple assembly rooms in the evening from 7:30 until 10 o'clock. The day marked a great event in the lives of these Jewish young people and in the congregation here.

The class consisted of Leona Bernstein of 513 West Market street, Sylvan H. Holstein of 669 West Elm, Samuel Levin of 128 West McKibben, Maxie F. Rappaport of Ottawa, Esther Rubin of St. Marys, and Donald Wise of Bluffton. Their teacher in the Sunday school was M. E. Welkelbaum.

Each of the confirmands had a part in the program. The service was by Rabbi David Lefkowitz of Dayton, who also gave the welcome. Certificates of confirmation were presented by N. L. Michael, president of the congregation.

The children's choir, Mrs. C. S. Baxter, Alex. Frankel, Miss Rae Heffner at the organ and Miss Dorothy Kleinberger on violin, provided music.

CHANGE OF SCHEDULE

The Western Ohio Railway will on June 16th, 1916, make change in the time of the Lima-Cleveland Limited, which has been leaving Lima at 2:15 P. M. and arriving at Cleveland at 7:50 P. M.

The car will then leave Lima at 1:20 P. M. and will make the run to Cleveland in five hours, arriving there at 8:20 P. M. which will now assure connection with the Cleveland and Buffalo Boat Line for Buffalo which leaves Cleveland at 8:00 P. M. each night.

This change shortens the running time 35 minutes and is the only through route to Cleveland from Lima without change of cars.

The morning car to Cleveland will run on the same schedule leaving Lima at 6:00 A. M. and arriving at Cleveland at 11:50 A. M.

GIRL IN MAN'S GARB WORKED IN MINE

Lure of $2.50 a Day Below Ground Too Much For Young Woman.

Each morning at 7 o'clock for three years a youthful coal digger went down in the mines at Tyler, Pa., clad in overalls, a blue shirt, with a miner's cap and lamp.

Throughout the day, until it came quitting time at 4 o'clock, this young miner labored hard with pick and shovel, doing more than the average man's work.

The young miner was known as "Joe Ricatone", from Sunny Italy. Bright and happy of face and disposition, always ready to engage in a frolic or in a fist fight, if occasion demanded, "Joe" won a place in the hearts of the other miners and was not only regarded as a good fellow, but a friend whom they trusted and admired.

Rather suddenly one day recently "Joe" decided to give up the mining life and try something else. There were brothers to be consulted, and after a solemn family council, it was decided that "he" should don a woman's wig and feminine attire and come to Pittsburgh to find some other kind of employment.

For "Joe" is a girl.

She is a beautiful girl, too. She had come to America to win her fortune, and the lure of $2.50 per day in the mines was too strong for an ambitious girl of her physique.

To carry out her plans she donned the regulation attire of the Italian laborer and applied at the mines for work.

She did the regular work required of the men by her side, and at no time was her sex suspected.

FAUROT'S PICTURES.

A feud between rival clans in the hill country of Northern Georgia furnishes the main plot for "The Fued Girl," the Paramount picture now at the Faurot.

The idea has been extensively utilized on both stage and screen, but never seems to pall upon the tastes of those who enjoy stirring melodrama, and in the present instance a pretty little love romance is cunningly interwoven into the tale, imparting a very desirable touch of sentiment, and investing Hazel Dawn with new charm in the role of the unsophisticated mountain girl who appears as heroine.

The cast is chosen with admirable judgment. Miss Dawn, as Nell Haddon, daughter of the truculent old rifle-toting chieftain, who as head of his clan, disputes the ownership of Iron Mountain with the Basetts, is extremely attractive when portraying the barefooted lassie, who yields her heart to the supposed stranger from the city that later turns out to be her sweetheart of childhood days. The part calls for the display of much physical as well as mental energy, and Hazel's proficiency on horseback, combined with the agile manner in which she scales mountain crags should earn her a life-long membership in the ranks of the athletic sisterhood.

Sweet simplicity, mingled with a touch of temper worthy of the seed of a battling sire, is the keynote of Nell Haddon's character—a fact which is cleverly emphasized by the leading lady throughout the whole performance. The least hint of an artificial rendering would utterly ruin the role and destroy its appeal, but Miss Dawn's varied moods of coquetry, anger, grief and forgiveness are toned to the exact chord of emotional expression necessary in the development of this story of primitive passion and hatred.

Irving Cummings is the hills the position with credit Dave Bassett, alias Dave Ramo, called upon not only to indulge in tender love-making, but to engage in a fist fight with his rival—Nell's cousin—who provides several minutes of as fiery and exciting a hand-to-hand tussle as the most strenuous admirer of pugilistic endeavor could wish to witness. The support is efficient, and the play runs smoothly from its beginning to a strong climax.

The Famous Players have produced the picture with their usual care, the grouping and handling of the crowds in the scenes where the mountaineers are on the verge of battle being particularly effective. The photography is sure to win high praise from all who appreciate the beauty of wild woodland and mountain scenery, when skillfully depicted on the screen, and the feature in general compares favorably with its predecessors of the Famous Players studios.

A humorous Bray cartoon comedy, "The Police Dog in the Park," and a new idea in motion pictures, a comedy acted by clay models, are also on the bill. Over three thousand different models are used in the latter.

The BORDER HIGHWAY

A National Bulwark

A Practical Step Toward Preparedness

Gigantic Possibilities Of Circular Military Highway Around The United States

Lincoln Highway President Advocates Federal Belt Highway Of 10,000 Miles

Fear of Pork Has Hindered Government Roads.

The greatest single factor in preventing Federal appropriations for roads in the past has been politics, just as local log rolling in the expenditure of state funds has been the chief difficulty to overcome in the establishment of any systematic plan for permanent practical state highway systems.

If the Government undertakes to construct roads, it must begin somewhere, and discrimination as to what locality would first receive the advantage of such government aid is a matter of such exceeding difficulty that it is unlikely that it would ever be settled upon to the satisfaction of all those whose acquiescence and support must necessarily be secured before anything could be done. There has also been a feeling that the establishment of any regular appropriation on the part of the Government for roads would establish another "pork barrel" designed somewhat after the popular conception of the Rivers and Harbors Bill.

The answer, then, as for Congress to place the entire matter in the hands of army engineers, exactly as the Panama Canal was placed, and thus quiet the fear of those who anticipate another opportunity for dipping into the treasury "pork barrel," and in addition to specify the construction of such a minimum of highway work as could be so mapped out as to secure the support of every state in the Union.

This kind of a plan is the only one which could ever secure the consent of the American people.

Mr. Joy's plan would provide a highway which, in connection with the Lincoln, the Dixie, the Jefferson, and the Columbia River Highways, and the Santa Fe Trail, would enable the freest and most elastic system of transportation between every state in the Union, and would permit the mobilization of men and supplies on any part of our border with speed and dispatch. It would be the start of a real system of Federal highways which would eventually give this country such a spiderweb of permanent, hard-surfaced, connecting roads as enables modern Germany to transport her farm products in time of peace, at a cost per ton just one-fifth of the average cost in this country, and in time of war to amass the world by a rapidity of mobilization, concentration and attack never before dreamed of. The plan would be the first step toward the modernization of America's road system.

Suggested Route for Border Military Highway.

Mr. Joy's suggested military border highway would start at New York City, and follow the coast fifty to one hundred miles inland through New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Virginia, North Carolina,

South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana, then nearer to the border through Texas, New Mexico, Arizona and California, and following up the valley route through that state to Oregon and Washington, where it would turn along the Canadian border through Idaho, Montana, North Dakota, Minnesota, Wisconsin and along the Great Lakes through Illinois, Indiana, looping up through Michigan, then along the southern shore of Lake Erie through Ohio, Pennsylvania and New York, along Lake Ontario and the St. Lawrence, up through the northern ends of Vermont and New Hampshire, circling through the State of Maine, again along the Canadian border, and following the Atlantic Coast inland through Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut, to the starting point at New York City.

Other Routes Connect with Border Road.

Such a road as this, in connection with the Lincoln Highway, the shortest and most direct route between New York and San Francisco, through New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Iowa, Nebraska, Wyoming, Utah, Nevada and California, the Dixie Highway running north and south through Illinois, Kentucky, Tennessee, Georgia and Florida, the Jefferson Highway, paralleling the coast through Minnesota, Iowa, Missouri, Oklahoma, Arkansas and Louisiana, the Santa Fe Trail across Kansas, Colorado, New Mexico and Arizona, and the Columbia River Highway through Washington, Oregon, Idaho and Wyoming, would establish the shortest possible main arterial system of national highways which could secure the support of every state in the Union and which would be the most intelligent expenditure of Government money possible for highway improvement, providing an object lesson of inestimable worth to the people of every State.

Mr. Joy, in speaking of his plan, said:

"It is well within the possibilities, and infinitely of more value to the United States, than the Panama Canal. It would be a public work of inestimable value in civil life as well as of national necessity in the work of military preparedness. Such a work should be removed utterly and entirely from any political and should be put in the hands of an army officer to execute exactly as Colonel Goethals executed the work of the Panama Canal, without hindrance by political pulling and hauling as to the details of the route."

Border Highway Will Provide Base for Coast Activities.

Such a border highway as Mr. Joy has proposed would touch the coast only at long intervals, and at the principal ports, the idea being that the highway would thus be so far inland as to be immune from attack or capture by invaders or destruction by hostile planes, and would yet be always near enough to the border to enable the utmost facility of communication between all parts of the country and the fighting front, should we be forced to repel invasion. The easement would be in close communication with this border highway over innumerable roads which would connect it with all main ports, these roads being ordinary state or county roads developed to the highest degree through the stimulus of the proposed Government construction.

Border Highway Would Improve Mobility of United States Troops.

Our present small continental army of less than 40,000 men, representing a protective force of but a little over 1,000 men for each 100,000 square miles of our territory, and which is actually less than the standing armies of such fifth and sixth rate powers as Sweden, Serbia, Portugal and Peru, would be admittedly powerless to repel a concerted coastal attack from any first class military power, but its effectiveness could be increased many times over as its possible mobility was increased.

Mobility for armies under present conditions means good roads—through, connecting, permanent, good roads of the character which have been the salvation of Panama. Like France, our railroads are not laid out with an eye toward military availability. They are not so laid out as to afford quick and easy access to those points where attack might be made, or even to those points where attack would undoubtedly be made, and such railroads as we have leading to points of strategic importance are inadequate to take care of any extraordinary demand. In case of war, we, like France, would necessarily depend upon our roads for the quick movement of men and supplies, but unlike her, we have not even the foundations of a military system of protective highways along our coast and borders.

Military Highways of France Have Been Her Salvation.

A recent correspondent of the Associated Press, writing from Paris, tells how the military highways of France have, upon more than one occasion, saved the French front, after German long range artillery, with consummate skill, had cut the French railroad lines of communication, dropping with his precision of clockwork as many as 50,000 shells upon short sections of track in the van of approaching supplies and men, yet each time the automobile caravans brought up the reinforcements of cannon, munitions, food and water.

Overcoming Difficulties Along Mexican Border Due to Lack of Roads.

The recent difficulties of the American troops along the Mexican border have impressed the absolute necessity of improved highways for both patrolling and maneuvering. The Mexican border from the Gulf of Mexico to California covers a distance of approximately 1,200 miles. The problem of guarding this border only with our entire available army would require stretching the line so thin as to make it ineffective, as was indicated by the attack on Columbus, New Mexico, and the subsequent escape of the Villa party. In spite of the equipment immediately adjacent to Columbus of four troops of the 13th U. S. Cavalry engaged in patrolling the border.

Motor Transport Necessary for Modern Warfare.

Our positive expedition in Mexico has relied absolutely upon the line of communication established by motor trucks between the advancing party and their base. Particularly in that barren desert country on both sides of the line is motor transportation an absolute necessity to the movements of military bodies where all water, as well as food, for both men and horses, must be supplied from the base. There is no such thing as "living off the country." A border highway would have been of incalculable aid to the Government in mobilizing troops for the pursuit of Villa and in mobilizing the supplies and munitions for the attack.

Modern Road Building Machinery Should Be Part of Army Equipment.

Mr. Joy, after a personal investigation of conditions on the border, and after himself taking with the officers of the punitive expedition, and following it for a considerable distance into Mexico, said:

"The trucks and the roads divided the honors of an army mobilization about half and half. The U. S. engineering corps at work on the roads in Mexico was equipped with pink and blue, but most of the country is so rough a part of the necessary equipment of the motor transport is so lacking. When the call came our army had neither the motor trucks nor the road-building machinery to support efficiently the equipment and troops needed for these quick movements."

Those who have traversed the muddy roads of the United States in the rainy season appreciate the difficulty of motor transport under these conditions.

If the United States Government had had at a dozen different points in this country bodies of men at work constructing Federal military highways at most strategic points, and had in addition adequate equipment of modern road building machinery, tractors, caterpillars, graders and rollers, the whole force could have been instantly mobilized at any point where expediency demanded the immediate extension and improvement of the local roads. It would have been possible by this time and by construction of every detail of the War Department's road constructing resources to run a concrete road entirely along the line of march in Mexico, following our advancing troops and connecting with the main base of supplies on the northern side of the border.

Late rainy weather in the south-west has made movement of heavy loaded trucks almost an impossibility, but if at the first movement of troops this contingency had been foreseen, and road construction begun with an adequate force and equipment, the road problem would have been by this time eliminated from the consideration of our commanding officers.

The same situation would hold true at any other point where troops and supplies would necessarily be marshaled in case of attack. With Federal road construction machinery of the highest type constantly in use along our border, operated by trained bodies of men under the command of army engineers, little time would be lost in mobilizing these forces in the van of our armies, and literally smoothing the way for them and their operations.

Plan Proposes 10,000 Miles of Federal Construction.

The proposed border highway, with its transverse connecting linkways in the form of the Lincoln, the Dixie and the Jefferson and Columbia River Highways, and the Santa Fe Trail, would total upwards of 10,000 miles of proposed Federal construction, requiring in the neighborhood of $250,000,000, an amount which, if properly expended, would be utterly insignificant in the light of the good accomplished. The saving in cost of transportation of the arm and other products of the states traversed would every year more than pay off this investment, with interest.

It will be noted that this sum is far less than that which was expendent through United States army engineers in the construction of the Panama Canal, a work which, while of the greatest benefit to the nation as a whole, has little meaning in the actual lives of hundreds of thousands of American citizens, all of whom would directly feel the benefits of such a system of Federal roads.

Federal Military Highways Would Stimulate State and County Construction.

Such a network of highways as proposed under this Federal military plan would be an inestimable boon to the farmer living along rural free delivery routes. The rapid extension and improvement of our postal service would follow logically upon the heels of any plan for Federal extension and improvement of our main highways, and it can be stated as a fact that for every mile of hard-surfaced, permanent, efficient road constructed by the Federal Government under such a military plan as outlined, ten miles of additional interconnecting, better, county routes would be improved to the same high standard.

Military Value of Good Roads Recognized by Highest Authorities.

In commenting on the Lincoln Highway in a recent communication to the national headquarters of the Lincoln Highway Association, Major-General Hugh L. Scott, at that time Secretary of War, expressed the views of the War Department on the important subject of roads when he said:

"All good roads have their value in a military war, and the more we have, particularly in areas of possible military operations, the better it will be. The value of good roads in a military sense can hardly be over-estimated."

Stephen Bill Now Before Congress Outlines Similar Plan.

A recent Bill introduced in the House of Representatives by Congressman Stephen of California, among other things outlines a plan practically identical with the one suggested by Mr. Joy. This Bill provides for the issuance of bonds to the extent of $100,000,000 to be utilized in the acquisition, construction and maintenance of a national defense highway which would be constructed in the form of the Lincoln, the Dixie and the Jefferson and Columbia River Highways, and the Santa Fe Trail, would total upwards of 10,000 miles of proposed Federal construction, requiring in the neighborhood of $250,000,000, an amount which, if properly expended, would be utterly insignificant in the light of the good accomplished. The saving in cost of transportation of the arm and other products of the states traversed would every year more than pay off this investment, with interest.

Grudges.

State Politics, Especially Senatorial Race, Begin to Sizzle Ominously.

COLUMBUS, O., June 12.—Ohio state politics will feel the stingy stimulus of developments caused by the republican national convention and the primary campaign there is to be put vigorously under way at once.

Some go home to meet situations wholly new and quite the opposite the conditions they left when they started for Chicago, while still others go back to study out a plan of action and decide on a course to be followed.

The gubernatorial and senatorial situation will be greatly quickened at once. Tomorrow Harry M.
Daugherty will start in earnest his effort to land the senatorial nomination. He will speak a number of times to the old soldiers at the fiftieth anniversary of the Grand Army of Ohio at Marion this week.

Myron T. Herrick's friends announced here they will at once complete their state organization and set into the fight to nominate the Cleveland for senator, with fresh vigor.

Former Senator Charles W. F.
Dick, also seeking the senatorial nomination, has his preliminary work completed and will start at once the active organization of his forces. There appears certain to be developed in the senatorial contest more of a battle than had been expected and it may overshadow some of the other contests.

Governor Frank B. Willis' friends will seek to get from the republican state convention next week in Columbus an endorsement of the republican state administration. The Willis forces have taken great care to see that "right" delegates to the state convention were chosen.
If the Willis delegates control, it will be unpleasant for the other aspirants for the state house job.

When the announcement was made at Burton headquarters here that Gen. J. Warren Keifer, of Springfield, had filed his declaration as a candidate for congress in the district now represented by Simeon D. Fess, the friends of the latter foresaw trouble.

Congressman Fess is not in rapport with the organization of the big republican counties in his district, while Gen. Keifer is almost idolized all over the district. The Keifer-Fess contest bids fair to be one of the stirring incidents of the state campaign.

Senator Warren G. Harding is to remain in Ohio until after the G. O.
P. state convention, June 21, and will be at the gathering. It is certain he will make an address to the convention. Former Congressman Ralph D. Cole, temporary chairman, expects to be neutral on the senatorial fight in his speech at the opening of the convention, and J.
Warren Keifer, who will probably be permanent chairman, is expected to follow the same course.

The Ohio Bull Moose delegates to the Chicago convention went home with feelings of rage and outraged pride. They did not vote full approval of the course decreed by the national leaders of their party. Some of them may step over to the republicans, others will not take a step in any direction for the present and still others may remain independent of any party affiliations just now.

The decision as to a Bull Moose state ticket is not yet made and may not be for weeks. Many of the Bull Moose leaders are not enamored of Governor Willis, and statements from a number of them show plainly they will not give him their enthusiastic support even if an amalgamation of the two parties is made reasonably complete.

The feeling of the republican leaders was one of jubilation. They are inclined to think the Moose menace has been removed and that this means victory for the party in November. Harry M. Daugherty made the statement late last evening before leaving for home that Hughes would carry Ohio by 150,000 and also would carry the state and congressional candidates into office.

The defeat of Senator Theodore E. Burton for president will bring some resentments into the state campaign as many of his friends went home bitter over untoward developments here when Ohio people fought Burton and helped make more certain the defeat indicated from the first.

Campaign Manager Mooney was bitterly disappointed and said so, but was profuse in thanks to those who had done so much for the Burton candidacy.

HER SUGGESTION.

In the American Magazine a woman tells of a suggestion she made as the result of a butcher's indifference.

"I don't wish to complain about your service," she stated to the manager, "but I should like to tell you how to improve it—at least in my town."

The manager smiled in a wearied sort of way and resignedly asked,
"Well?"

"Tell your butcher at Blank to extend the same courtesies to a woman who makes a twenty-cent purchase of pork chops that he does to one who buys a two-dollar leg of lamb.
Your man is a good butcher, but he is hurting trade by humiliating your poorer customers. His method of obtaining big sales will result in no sales."

The manager to her surprise, jumped up and grasped her by the hand. "Thank you," he said, "for the sanest criticism that has come to me for weeks." And he gave her a good job then and there.

of visitors, as well as delegates. Bureaus of information will be conducted throughout the city, and 100 boy scouts have been pressed into service for the work at hand, including the escort of visitors to their rooming places.

A big feature of the encampment will be the preparedness parade, to be staged Tuesday night, the 13th, when thousands of men will march in line, a large number of bands will play and beautiful floats will be seen.

This parade will be followed by a citizens' meeting at the opera house, where tribute will be paid to the Boys in Blue. The principal speaker will be Harry M. Daugherty. Attorney Fred E. Guthery, Democratic candidate for judge of the court of appeals from the Third district, will preside. Mr. Guthery is recognized as one of the most able men of the Ohio bar and is an eloquent speaker.

GET CLEAN INSIDE

More Important Than Soap and Water, or a Toothbrush.

Only a part of the food we eat is required for nourishment. The balance is waste and should be washed from the system each day. When the digestive organs have extracted the nourishment from our food the indigestible portion and waste is passed into the lower bowels to be removed. If it is not removed promptly it sours; turns to poison and becomes the home of millions of bacteria.

It is really more important to be clean inside than to have clean skin.
Strong drugs, purgatives and oils should be avoided. They irritate and weaken the system, you the surest and quickest relief. It is not a drug but a mineral water from Dawson Springs, Kentucky. It acts quicker and has none of the sickening, harmful effects of drugs. First, it neutralizes the dangerous acids of the stomach; then washes, really flushes the stomach and bowels, and does it in an easy, natural way.
You can banish constipation, biliousness, stomach trouble clean out of your life by its daily use.

Go to your druggist today and get a bottle of Tollo Water. It only costs a trifle. Start tomorrow morning when you get up. Pour a tumbler about one-third full of Tollo Water; fill the glass with plain water—hot, if convenient—and drink it before breakfast. The first glass brings relief.

Make inside cleanliness a part of your daily life. It will do you ten times more good than a dainty bath.

BUTTER LOTTERY PRIZES IN GERMANY

Peasants Fined For Smuggling It Into Mayence in High Hats.

More eloquent than all official reports of food prices is the story of a concert at Breslau, Germany. Some local musicians organized it in the Breslau Philharmonic hall. They advertised a lottery at the end of the performance. All ticket holders being able to get one lottery ticket each. The prize consisted of ten pounds of butter, done up in one-quarter pound packets. The first prize was half a pound of butter.

The announcement of the lottery created such a sensation among but-terless citizens of Breslau that the hall was packed from floor to ceiling.
Another butter story comes from Mayence, on the Rhine. Citizens noticed that the peasants began coming into town wearing old-fashioned chimney-pot hats, discarded long ago.
They were all the more puzzled because even the women from the surrounding villages began to wear them. One day a local official met a high-hatted peasant and saluted him.
The peasant did not return a greeting by taking off his hat, and an altercation followed. In the heat of the argument the peasant's hat fell off. And lo and behold, no less than five packets of butter, each weighing one pound, fell out of it. For some weeks all the peasants had been smuggling butter from their districts into Mayence, where it fetched a high price. As there has been a decree forbidding people to take food out of their own district, the high-hatted peasantry were immediately fined.

INTRODUCED TIRE FISH.

As a table delicacy the tire fish has established itself firmly under the exploration of the bureau of fisheries, which undertook to bring its merits to public attention a short time ago.
These fish are now marketed in great quantities and are to be found on sale in all the leading markets of the eastern part of the country, so that the government's efforts in introducing it have been eminently successful.

FIND GOLD IN CORPSE.

Before the estate of Albert Hallen, $5, could be settled, a post-mortem operation was necessary to remove from his stomach a ten-dollar gold piece which Hallen had included in his will bequeathing $250.

Investigation showed the sum bequeathed $10 over the sum at hand.
The coin had been swallowed several days before by Hallen in excitement, apparently in making his will.—

PROFIT TAKING IS FELT ON WALL ST.

NEW YORK, June 12.—The temptation to take profits caused a temporary setback of a point or more in such active stocks as Reading, St. Paul, Baldwin Locomotive and Mexican Petroleum, but original gains were augmented by a fresh buying movement. Demand for rails including New York Central, in which a single block of 7,800 shares changed hands, was the broadest for some weeks. Canadian Pacific and New Haven constituting the other very strong features of this part of the list. Various specialties improved moderately over initial quotations, but copper was backward.

Before mid-day trading slackened perceptibly but prices were well maintained. Bonds were firm. Accepting the course of today's early market as a criterion the speculative community came to regard latest developments in the political situation with some enthusiasm. Prices bounded upward vigorously at the opening. U. S. Steel being most conspicuous, rising a point on transactions extending from 1,400 to 4,000 shares. Other active industrials and representative railway stocks, as well as shipping issues and leaders of the munitions group rose 1 to 2 points. Airbrake made the greatest gain, adding 5 points to last week's rise. Trading was broad with signs of a renewal of public interest.

WHEAT IS DOWN ON CABLE NEWS

CHICAGO, June 12.—Wheat prices took a fresh downward swing today, influenced by easier cables, favorable weather and the slowness of shipping demand. Opening prices, which ranged from 3-8 to 1-8 lower, with July at $1.03 3-4 to 1-04 and September at $1.05 3-8 to 1-05 3-4, were followed by a material further drop in values.

Warmth and sunshine caused a general rush to sell corn. On the ensuing decline little support was encountered. After opening 3-8 to 3-4 down the market continued to show a tendency to sag.

Oats gave way with other grain. Unanimous houses were almost unanimously on the selling side.

Higher prices on hogs rallied the provision market. Buying however, was in the main of a scattered sort.

The wheat close was unsettled at 1 1/4 to 1 1/2 net lower with July at $1.03 and September $1.04 1/4. The corn close was nervous at 3/4 and 3/4 to 1/2 net decline.

The close was: Wheat, July $1.03; Sept. $1.04 1/4. Corn, July 70 1/4; Sept. 69 1/4. Oats, July 39 1/4; Sept. 38 1/4. Pork, July $22.50; Sept. $21.95. Lard, July $22.70; Sept. $22.82. Ribs, July $12.92; Sept. $13.00.

A POOR SHOT.

Walter Winans is the world's champion revolver shot, and on his estate in England he has been training sharpshooters for the allies since the beginning of the war.

Mr. Winans was not always a good shot. He tells a story, in fact, of a time when he was such a poor shot that a boy, after watching his performance for an hour or so, touched his cap to him and said:

"Say, mister, gimme a dime and a start as far as the fence and you can let go both barrels at me."

THE IDEA LINGERED.

Alan Hawley said at the New York Automobile club:

"The first automobiles were made like carriages—as if a pair of horses were to draw them, you know. For years the automobile designer couldn't get away from the carriage model—couldn't help providing for the horse."

"In fact, I have heard of several chaps in the first days of automobilizing who designed two-story garages, the upper story for the hay and feed."

WHERE IS HE?

Miss Annie S. Peck, the famous mountain climber, said at the Colony club in a discussion of the divorcee:

"The crux of the question is equal rights, equal privileges for wife and husband. When you get the husband to accept this standard then the divorce evil will disappear."

DOCTOR REIGNS RELEAS.

Harry Canby and Benjamin R. Canby, died $100 and costs and $3. And costs respectively, on the charge of bootlegging, were today released from jail by Auditor Thomas A. Welsh. Neither of the men were able to pay and they were released under the statute governing the same. The costs in Canby's case was $12.50 and in Rothman's case $6.50.

CAN'T UNDERSTAND AMERICAN'S VIEW IN GREAT BRITAIN
"Outsider" Says War Has Proven United States Has Little National Spirit.
Charges School System Has Failed to Join Alien Citizens.

LONDON, June 12.—Writing to a London newspaper, Sydney Brooks declares that American citizens are amazed and puzzled by the facts about their own country which the great war has revealed. He says:

"That America should puzzle an outsider like myself is nothing. But that Americans themselves should be bewildered by their own country, should confess their inability to explain it, should be at a loss to diagnose its state of mind or to say whether, if anywhere, it is tending—this is really curious and really important."

"Once the easiest country in the world to understand, America has become one of the most difficult. Even the shrewdest native judges admit themselves baffled. The war has revealed to them a new America, of which they hardly profess to know anything. Those of them who are of British stock not only feel themselves strangers in their own land, but are aware that their position as the governing race is being sharply challenged. It is not in Flanders or on the North sea alone that the Anglo-Saxondom is having to fight to hold its own."

"What troubles them more than anything else is to find themselves surprised by the war into the suspicion that the United States is not a nation. 'This war,' they say, 'has found us out. We trusted to our school system to assimilate all these alien in our midst. We see now that it has failed, that racialism is rampant among us, and that there are men calling themselves Americans who are ready to sacrifice everything that is most distinctly American in the interests of the European country from which they come.'

But it is not only they go on, 'this ugly specter of internal division that frightens us. We have been fed into the belief that, apart from the racialism from the German-American and the other hyphenates, this country is a vast and its population a mass of homogeneous and its common sense and its common sense to all.

MRS. MATILDA KARNIS FUNERAL TUESDAY

Venerable Woman's Body
Will be Laid to Rest
Amid Sorrow.

Funeral services for Mrs. Matilda A. Karnis, widow of the late Josiah S. Karnis, will be held Tuesday forenoon at 10 o'clock at her late home in the Kelp apartments, High and West streets. Dr. M. B. Fuller, pastor of Trinity church, will officiate. The body will be laid to rest at Woodlawn.

Mrs. Karnis was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Faurout and was 79 years of age, lacking three months. For eight weeks she has been ill, suffering from a complication of diseases, during which she bore her suffering patiently. She was born on October 13, 1837, in Marion county, Ohio.

Her husband died 18 years ago. Almost since his death Miss Minerva Musselman, bookkeeper for the Times-Democrat Publishing company, has resided with Mrs. Karnis, who looked upon Miss Musselman almost as her own daughter and the love was reciprocated.

George and Arthur Faurout, brothers, survive her death. In life Mr. Karnis was affiliated with the men who built the Lima Locomotive works. Mrs. Karnis was a sister to the late B. F. Faurout, financier. The family is one of the oldest and most prominent in Allen county.

OHIO VETERANS AT STATE ENCAMPMENT

WASHINGTON, June 12.—The supreme court today affirmed the action of the Ohio supreme court in holding that the Sprague congressional re-districting law, enacted by the 1915 legislature had been repealed by an adverse referendum vote of the people.

The decision guarantees that the Fourth congressional district will continue as it stands at present. Had the tribunal reversed the Ohio supreme court Miami county would have been removed from the district and Putnam affirmed, thereby making radical changes in many ways in the complexion of the district.

DOGS ATTRACT TO W.J. COLLIN'S BODY

Plasterer Found Dead in Rear of Holleran Place,
South Main.

Incessant barking of dogs, giving off the belief that something unusual was the matter, called neighbors to the rear of the home of Mrs. Elizabeth Holleran at 953 South Main street, yesterday morning and the dead body of W. J. Collins, 50, plasterer, of Lima, was found in a shed back of the Holleran hotel on South Main street. Collins had been employed at the farm home of J. E. Fetter on the Lafayette road, it is said.

He came to town Saturday, expecting to work for Mrs. Holleran. It is believed that he had been dead about eight hours, expiring some time during the night.

The body showed no signs of decomposition. Besides the body were two empty half-pint whiskey bottles. Coroner E. J. Curtis will render death due to alcoholism. The body was removed to the Whitley mortuary.

Collins is said to have a brother living in Columbus and a sister on South Main street in Lima.

Head of Order This Week.
